

The Peacemaking Banner of National Capital Presbytery

The Peacemaking Banner of National Capital Presbytery was designed by Susan Tilt, of Arlington, Virginia-- an artist who designs and creates liturgical vestments, altar pieces and banners, and other fiber art, and is a painter as well, (susantilt@mac.com; www.spirit-too.com). Susan designed this banner and worked together with members of the Presbytery Peacemaking Committee to produce a banner that could be displayed at the 2008 meeting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church USA meeting in San Jose, California.

The banner is available to local congregations who wish to borrow it for display in their church, especially in conjunction with Peacemaking programs. To arrange to borrow the banner, contact Barbara DeLouise, of the Peacemaking Committee; 301-530-3479; delouise58@msn.com. The banner is kept at the Presbytery office when not in use by a congregation. To arrange to pick up the banner at the Presbytery office, contact Rob Monroe, at rmonroe@thepresbytery.org.
